ENGLISH Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) Articles 9,11,37,20,22	Philosophical thinking In the magical world of Narnia, things are often not as they seem. Big questions: • Why might we be misled if we judge someone or something by their outward appearance, like the White Witch's deceptive beauty? • When have you, like Edmund, given in to the sweet lure of temptation? • Is jealousy a helpful or harmful feeling, and how does it differ from craving what others have (envy) or wanting endless riches (avarice)? • Can you recall a time you sacrificed something important for the sake of another, much like Aslan? • Does ambition always lead to selfish desires, or can it be a force for good? • Should we always believe what our eyes tell us in a world full of magic and illusion? • Will true peace ever come to Narnia, or indeed, to our own world? • How do brave deeds and kindness help achieve a world without conflict? This term, Year 4 will be drawn into the fantastical realm of Narnia, embarking on an unforgettable adventure with Peter, Susan, Edmund, and Lucy in C.S. Lewis' beloved tale, The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe. Through this immersive journey, the children will have exciting opportunities to craft a wide range of texts. They will pen heartfelt diary entries and powerful internal monologues from the perspective of Narnian characters, compose compelling persuasive speeches for or against the White Witch, and master the art of dialogue writing interwoven with rich narrative. To crown their term, they will unleash their creativity in an thrilling narrative section describing a climactic battle! Throughout this extraordinary learning expedition, the children will delve into and discuss profound reading themes and pivotal questions woven into the fabric of the story. Year 4 will explore the weighty ideas of forgiveness, trust, betrayal, and temptation, learning invaluable lessons from the triumphs and struggles of the Pevensie children. This journey will also deepen their understanding of the UNICEF Rights Respecting Schools initiative, as they consider the rights and responsibilities of Narnian citizens. To celebrate the downfall of the Snow Queen and the lifting of her eternal winter spell, they will culminate their unit with a joyous performance – a short production of a play inspired by her character and her defeat!

	This term, the children will sharpen their mathematical skills, preparing them for any challenge! They will focus on addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. Alongside this, they will also explore measures (how to calculate distances, amounts, and capacities) and delve into geometry (understanding shapes, their properties, and patterns). They will also continue to master fractions, learning how to work with parts of a whole. There will be a constant emphasis on rapidly recalling times tables – an essential skill for all mathematicians! The children will also continuously build their arithmetic skills, helping them to quickly solve problems. They will be encouraged to choose the cleverest and most efficient method to tackle each mathematical challenge, applying these skills to solve tricky reasoning problems. Finally, just like telling a clear story, the children will learn to explain their mathematical workings using precise and powerful mathematical language.
SCIENCE CRC Articles 13 24, 26, 27, 28, 32	States of Matter This term, the children will delve into the fascinating world of States of Matter. They will learn to compare and group various materials based on whether they exist as solids, liquids, or gases. The children and staff will conduct exciting investigations to observe how certain materials undergo a change of state when they are either heated or cooled. They will also identify the crucial roles played by evaporation and condensation within the continuous water cycle. Alongside this, they will also explore how the rate at which liquids evaporate is directly linked to temperature. Throughout this unit, the children will engage in scientific inquiry, developing essential skills such as careful observation, accurate recording of data, and thoughtful evaluation of their findings from a variety of practical investigations.	Animals, including humans This term, the children in Year 4 will become experts on two incredible topics! First, they will explore the human digestive system, learning to describe the simple functions of its basic parts and understand how human bodies break down the food they eat. They will also identify the different types of teeth in humans and discover their simple jobs in helping them chew their food. Secondly, they will investigate the fascinating world of food chains. They will learn to construct and interpret a variety of food chains, clearly identifying the roles of producers (things that make their own food), predators (animals that hunt other animals), and prey (animals that are hunted). They will discover how all living things are connected in the natural world!
COMPUTING CRC Articles 17,20,24, 26, 27, 28, 32	Online Safety The children will learn what plagiarism is, knowing when and how it is acceptable to use the work of others. Most importantly, the children will learn how to think critically about the information they share online. They will also be made aware that they may get online messages from other	Computer Science 2 The children will have the opportunity to create a game in Scratch. They will be able to move and steer sprites, change costumes, and create a maze. They will also be able to use logical thinking to identify and solve potential bugs during coding.
